

History

Formed in November 1990, as a local project between 14 hoteliers from Grampian and the Economic Development and Planning Department of Grampian Regional Council, in response to skills shortages, with an aim to develop and train personnel in the industry, raising standards and the take up of qualifications.

The Association now trades as Hospitality Training and is a non-profit making organisation with a fee-paying membership.

By supporting Hospitality Training, you are assisting us in the development of people within the sector, and the attraction of future candidates to the industry. You give us a voice to be able to communicate your needs and work in partnership with funding bodies to ensure the sustained development of the industry and the skills required to deliver an excellent product to the customer.

Scottish Vocational Qualifications

SVQ's can really make the difference to your business.

SVQ's are awards that recognise a person's ability to do his or her own job. They are awarded following evidence that work based activities meet national Occupational Standards. Having qualified staff can make a difference to the customers experience of a company. SVQ's are recognised as a bench mark of employee competence. There are a variety of qualifications available, covering all occupations in the Hospitality Industry.

Hospitality Training is an approved Scottish Qualifications Authority Centre. We are approved to deliver all qualifications in Hospitality and approved to provide Assessor Qualifications.

Professionally Qualified Employees

SCQF Level 5

Candidates at this level need to be able to work well on their own and as part of a team.

Professional Cookery

This SVQ is for people starting out as a chef or cook. The SVQ provides basic food preparation and cooking skills along with the theory behind the process.

Food and Beverage Service

This SVQ provides the necessary units to help candidates provide a food and beverage service and to understand the need for good working and customer relations.

Hospitality Services

This SVQ covers a variety of departments from Housekeeping, Reception and multi-skilled. It is tailor-made to suit the requirements of the individual and the department they are working in.

SCQF Level 6

Level 6 & 7 are geared for people who are supervisory or advanced craft level at work.

Professional Cookery

This level takes the chef into a more departmental area of the kitchen to develop their skills.

SCQF Level 7

Hospitality, Supervision and Leadership

This is a generic SVQ where the units chosen can be extracted to cover the areas of work required to suit the candidate's requirements.
